

Torch Fuel 'Drink' Checked in Deaths

John Witkowski Victim of Fatal Heart Attack; Vincent Bouck Dies at Hospital

Third Man Missing Shellac Solvent Found Near Dudley's Bed in Home

Two empty bottles of Deversol, a 200-proof torch fuel and shellac solvent, figured in a series of tragic incidents reported to police overnight.

One of the bottles was found by police investigating the sudden death early today of a man who has a police record of many public intoxication convictions.

The other bottle was turned in to the sheriff's office this morning by the father of a man, also the possessor of a record of many public intoxication convictions. The bottle was found near the bed of the son, who has been missing since Thursday.

Another man known to police for his record of drinking died earlier Friday night of a heart condition.

Known to Police

All three are known to police and sheriff's men as members of Kingston's "bottle gang."

Vincent "Sailor" Bouck, 44, of 486 Wilbur avenue, died suddenly after he was taken to Kingston Hospital about 4 a. m. today, police reported. It was from his effects that the first empty bottle of Deversol was confiscated by police, they reported.

The bottle is being held at police headquarters, and an autopsy is being performed today to determine the cause of Bouck's death.

Bouck was taken to the hospital in a W. N. Conner, Inc., ambulance in charge of Harry Barnhart, who reported Bouck's death to police at 4:30 a. m. today.

Bouck's friend and partner in the wood selling business, John Witkowski, 50, was found dead on the floor of his home at 27 Hanratty street at 7:50 p. m. Friday, just eight and a half hours before Bouck's death was reported, according to police.

Had Been Drinking

Witkowski, who was pronounced dead by Dr. Peter Corones, died of a heart attack, according to Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, but the victim had been drinking heavily before his death, the coroner added.

A veteran of both World Wars, Witkowski was a lifelong resident of this city. During the First World War, he was a member of the Medical Detachment, 304th Field Artillery. In the second war, he served as a member of Company C, 154th Infantry. He is survived by two brothers, Edward and Stephen Witkowski, both of this city.

The funeral will be held from the L. T. Scanlon Funeral Home, Lawrenceville street, Lincoln Park, Monday morning at 9 o'clock, and at 9:30 a. m. at the Immaculate Conception Church, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Dudley Missing

The other bottle of shellac solvent was found this morning near the bed of Kenneth Dudley, 11 Klingburg avenue, the sheriff's office and police reported. Dudley has been missing from his home since Thursday. Police this morning began a check of the city for Dudley prior to sending out a missing person alarm for him.

Truman Checks

Key West, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—President Truman set aside this afternoon for a full-scale review of military production with Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

42 Permits Given For Construction By Chief Murphy

A building permit for Kingston's housing project brought the total estimated cost on permits issued by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy for November to $1,085,052, the chief's completed report showed today.

The chief issued 42 permits during the month as against 47 in October when the total estimated cost was $165,393.

The estimated cost on the housing project permits was $1,017,000.

Permits for two other dwellings were issued with the estimated cost placed at $17,000.

Four permits were issued for private garages at $5,250 and one for a warehouse-garage at $15,000. Ten permits were issued for alterations, additions and repairs to residential buildings at $9,270 and eight for the same purpose on non-residential structures at $30,580.

The estimated cost was $7,672 on oil tanks and burners for which 15 permits were issued.

Downtown Woman Found Dead Today Of Heart Attack

Mrs. Elizabeth Hutton, 75, Discovered in Kitchen by Husband; Had Been Ill

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hutton, 75, was found dead in the kitchen of her home at 45 Ponckhockie street at 8:10 a. m. today, the police reported.

Death was due to a heart condition, Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said.

Mrs. Hutton, who had been ill, apparently got up during the night and had gone to the kitchen, where she died, police said. Her body was discovered this morning by her husband, Edward Hutton. Police were notified and Patrolmen Gerald Every and Kenneth Stratton were sent to investigate.

Mrs. Hutton was born in England, daughter of the late Joseph and Jane Threthewey. She came to this country at an early age and made her home in Kingston the past 64 years. One of the oldest members of the Ponckhockie Congregational Church, she was active in missionary work and was a member of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church. She was well and favorably known to a large circle of friends.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are a son, William Edward Hutton of Kingston; a daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Burger; one brother, Thomas Threthewey of Kingston.

The funeral will be held from the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Down street, Tuesday, 2 p. m. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at any time.

Whole World Green

Los Angeles, Dec. 1 (AP)—Because David A. Finley looked at the world through green colored glasses he was out $25 today.

Even red traffic lights appeared green to him, Finley testified yesterday in answer to his third citation for driving through a stop signal. "Let me take a look through those specs of yours," said Municipal Judge Roger A. Pfaff. Then, gazing at Finley, the judge exclaimed: "Why, you look as green as an artichoke!" He turned to the bailiff and the court clerk. "Why, everybody looks green."

Even that necktie I noticed was red just awhile ago. I strongly advise you, Mr. Finley, to change glasses," Finley, shelling out the fine, agreed it might be a good idea.

Plate Idea Backfires

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Stanley Goldman's idea of putting Florida license plates in his car to beat New York traffic laws backfired to the tune of a license revocation, a $1,000 fine and 60 days in jail.

The 25-year-old Goldman said he got his Florida plates in the name of a business associate, Stanley Lambert of Miami. Goldman accumulated 46 New York city traffic tickets in less than a year. But he never bothered to pay one, believing that nobody would worry much about a violator who had gone back to Florida.

Another Romanoff

Reno, Nev., Dec. 1 (AP)—Alexis N. Romanoff, who claims he is the son of Czar Nicholas 2 of Russia, was divorced here Thursday by Mrs. Phyllis Brown Romanoff.

On charges of cruelty, the couple married at Yuma, Ariz., March 12, 1945. Romanoff is not to be confused with "Prince Mike" Romanoff, the Hollywood restaurateur.

Highland Woman Indicted for Fraud

Charge Is Dorothea Shook Used Mails in Lonely Hearts Racket

New York, Dec. 1 (Special)—An indictment was handed up to Judge Edward A. Conger by a Federal grand jury here Friday charging Mrs. Dorothea Shook, 31, of Philip avenue, Highland, with mail fraud in connection with a lonely hearts racket.

She will be arraigned for pleading next week.

Mrs. Shook, who is the mother of five children and whose husband is employed by the Dubois Taxi Company of Poughkeepsie, became a member of the Mail A Mate Club of Seattle, Wash., and used names of likely mates, supplied her, to victimize them, according to the charges.

$150 'Victim' Told

Claiming she was a 27 or 29-year-old war widow, interested in getting re-married, she corresponded with men in various parts of the country and allegedly induced them to send her money necessary to visit them. She would then pocket the money and end the correspondence, according to Assistant United States Attorney Jerome J. Leone.

The break came when one of her "victims," who sent her $150 to meet him in Bremerton, Wash., complained to the police.

Dewey Says Guard Must Be Stronger

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Governor Dewey today urged young men between 17 and 18½ years of age to enlist in the New York National Guard and the New York Air National Guard to bring all units up to full strength.

In a proclamation, the governor noted that some units should be replenished so the guard could "discharge its responsibility towards the security of the nation."

Dewey said it had been impossible to maintain the guard strength by using veterans of World War 2.

Church Addition To Be Dedicated

Dr. A. S. Flemming Main Speaker at Reformed Dutch, Sunday

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, formerly of this city, will deliver the main address Sunday night during dedication services for the new addition to the First Reformed Dutch Church in this city. Dr. Flemming is president of Ohio Wesleyan University and manpower chief in Charles A. Wilson's office of defense mobilization.

Presiding at the service, which begins at 7:30 p. m., will be the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the church.

The service will be preceded by a half-hour organ recital by Donald R. Romme, organist, and Howard Houghtaling, assistant. During the service, Mrs. Elizabeth Larsen will be soloist for a rendition of "Bless This House, by Brahe. Thanks Be to God, by Dickinson, will be sung by the senior choir under the direction of Mr. Romme.

List of Memorials
A list of memorials in the new addition to the church was released today by the Rev. Mr. Oudemool:

Room and furnishings, given by Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert H. Chambers in loving memory of Robert Gwynne Chambers.

Room and furnishings given in memory of Judge Joseph M. Fowler by his family.

Room and furnishings given by Mr. and Mrs. James F. Loughran in memory of William R. Ten-Broek.

Piano for choir room, given by John VanTassel in memory of his wife.

Public address system, given by Harvey Kolts.

Book of Remembrance, given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Millonig.

Kitchen equipment, given by Mrs. Kathryn Boice Hays; and by Mrs. Austin R. Newcombe and sons in memory of Mr. Newcombe.

Chairs for the assembly room, given by the Men's Club.

Assembly room equipment, given by Miss Minnie Hillman in memory of her brother, Chaplain James Hillman.

Slayer May Be Woman

Hauppauge, Dec. 1 (AP)—Police say deep fingernail gashes on the body of 12-year-old Lyde Kitchener, found beaten and strangled Thursday in a wooded area near her home, may mean the girl's slayer was a woman.

The girl, who was when she left the nearby Smithtown Junior High School had been used to strangle the brown-eyed girl, who was mature for her age. Although her clothing was disarranged and her undergarments torn, doctors found no evidence the girl had been raped. The body was bruised and the eyes were blackened.

Higher Liquor Costs

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Contract agreement between union clerks and some 1,200 New York city package liquor store dealers will mean higher prices for the consumer. The new wage and hour pact was ratified yesterday by members of the AFL Wine and Liquor Store Employees Union and the employer group, the Metropolitan Package Store Association.

$62,800 Verdict Is Returned Against Bearsville Bradys

Charge Is They Took Funds for Own Use Meant for Publishing of Child Books

New York, Dec. 1 (Special)—A New York County Supreme Court jury today returned a $62,800 verdict in State Supreme Court here against Neil and Madelon Brady of Bearsville, in a suit for fraud brought against them by Mrs. Vive Shaw-Kennedy of Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. Shaw-Kennedy charged that the Bradys defrauded her through the use of pretending to set up a publishing firm with her money. She testified that she gave the Bradys couple $48,000 in cash, $23,000 real property, $14,000 personal property, and credits totaling $15,000.

She told the court that the defendants had promised to use the assets to set up a firm, Vive-Lon Publishers, to print children's books. Instead, she asserted, they appropriated it all to their own use and sold the real and personal property for $37,000. Included in the property, she stated, was the furnishings from her home in Greenwich.

Other items which Mrs. Shaw-Kennedy said the Bradys appropriated were $12,000 worth of purchases on her charge accounts at exclusive New York stores, including a wild mink coat for Mrs. Brady; a Mercury automobile; a horse named "Thunderhead," and a ranch in Glendale, Ariz.

Mrs. Shaw-Kennedy said she made her charge accounts available to the Bradys in reliance on (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

1,000 Area Vets Entitled to More Help by New Law

The Kingston office at 286 Fair street has been advised that the Veterans Administration believes it has solved the problem of providing hospitalization and outpatient treatment for several thousands of veterans with mental illnesses who might qualify for such care under a new law.

The new law (Public Law 239, enacted October 30, 1951) provides that for the purpose of VA hospital and medical care, including outpatient treatment, World War 2 veterans and those with service since June 27, 1950 who develop an active psychosis within two years from the date of separation from active service shall be deemed to have incurred the disability in active service.

F. William Sheehan said that there are in excess of 1,000 qualified veterans for this new benefit in the five-county area served by his Fair street office. Sheehan added that before the law was passed, many such veterans were classified as non-service-connected cases and thus entitled to VA hospitalization only when a bed was available in a VA hospital, providing they signed a statement (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

Two frightened boys, rescued by their mother, ran back into their flaming log home yesterday when the woman went back for an 11-month-old daughter. The mother, Mrs. Ida Milam, 29, jumped to safety with her baby from the other side of the house. The lifeless bodies of the boy, Frankie, 2, and Douglas, 4, were found later in a bedroom.

Fire Claims Two Sons

Leatherwood, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Two frightened boys, rescued by their mother, ran back into their flaming log home yesterday when the woman went back for an 11-month-old daughter. The mother, Mrs. Ida Milam, 29, jumped to safety with her baby from the other side of the house. The lifeless bodies of the boy, Frankie, 2, and Douglas, 4, were found later in a bedroom.

Eight Perish in Yacht Sinking; Lone Survivor Tells of Four-Day Ordeal

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 1 (AP)—The only survivor of a yachting tragedy which took eight lives sobbed out last night his story of a four-day nightmare aboard a small lifeboat without food or water.

In the boat with the survivor, Negro crewman Gustave Emanuel Frazer, rescuers found the bodies of the yacht's skipper and his wife, and their dying 12-year-old son. Four others died at sea and the yacht's navigator jumped overboard to end his life.

Frazer had to be given an emergency blood transfusion after he was taken aboard the minesweeper Token, which sighted the 14-foot lifeboat while on a practice mission yesterday afternoon.

The boy, son of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel A. Luttrell, was still alive when picked up, but he died before the minesweeper could reach shore.

Frazer, in broken, agonized phrases, related how the grim

United Nations command today disclosed anxiety over mounting Communist air power in Korea. It insisted in the Panmunjom truce talks that construction or repair of air bases in North Korea be banned during an armistice.

The Reds promptly accused the United Nations of trying "to deprive our side forever of the right to defend ourselves."

The air base issue was raised during a stormy Saturday session in which Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN negotiator, underscored in forceful language the allied position that there be no military buildup and that joint observation teams be given free access to all Korea to police the truce.

Deeply Concerned
The official UN spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls told correspondents the UN allies are deeply concerned over the threat posed by increasing Communist air strength. He said the UN command primarily fears the possibility of strong air support for Red ground forces.

Joy told Communist negotiators that airfields were the only type of military facilities the allies felt must be restricted as part of the UN program for preventing a military buildup by either side during a truce.

North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il insisted it was "necessary" to strengthen air bases.

"I cannot but point out that the real objective of your proposal of allowing no increase of so-called military facilities is merely to deprive our side forever of the right to defend ourselves," he said.

Clarifying Statement
Nuckolls said the purpose of Joy's statement opening Saturday's session was to make the allied position on enforcement of the armistice "crystal clear."

Nuckolls emphasized, however, that the statement was "not considered an ultimatum."

Joy told Red envoys the UN allies will continue to insist that there should be:

1. No increase of military forces by either side during an armistice.

2. No buildup of war materials during that period.

3. An armistice commission to supervise the truce, including joint observation teams free to move the length and breadth of Korea.

4. No discussion of withdrawing troops from Korea by the armistice conference since the question must be decided by the belligerent governments.

When apple purchases were initiated this year, production was estimated to be 11 per cent above average, demand was limited and prices generally were below the level of government purchases. Since that time the estimate of production has declined materially, demand is generally strong and prices mostly well above the current purchase level.

Storage Holdings Lowest
Cold storage holdings of apples throughout the nation on Nov. 1 were the lowest, in relation to production, of the past 12 years, according to the Department of Agriculture.

"It now appears that, unless there is some marked change from present trends in apple marketing, there will be neither need or justification for additional purchases after January 1, 1952," the PMA office said.

Growers who wish to sell apples to the government before the program is terminated have been advised by Geary to submit offering (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

Bulgaria and Albania Strong; Watch Slav And Greek Activities

Rome, Dec. 1 (AP)—Russia may not have increased her own armed forces lately, but the armies of her satellites are growing by leaps and bounds, western intelligence sources report.

One informant for a western power, which keeps close tab on the Iron Curtain nations, says Red Bulgaria has built up a tough army of between 160,000 and 180,000 men spearheaded by some 500 tanks.

That would be three times the 55,000-man army limit set by Bulgaria's peace treaty with the allies after World War 2.

The Bulgarian air force also has been converted to MIG-15 jets, the fighter plane which has proved so effective in Korea, the informant said.

Soldiers Get Concessions
Army morale in Bulgaria is high, he declared, since soldiers and their families get special privileges. The rest of the country's 7,000,000 inhabitants are becoming restless under the Communist yoke, however, he added.

This same informant said starving little Albania now in the throes of a depression, has managed to build up an armed force of between 60,000 and 80,000 men.

He reported that Albania lacks Bulgaria's tanks and heavier armament, but the army is tough, well-trained and in good spirits. Here again troops are accorded special favors not granted the rest of Albania's 1,150,000 people.

This report fits in with the general picture of conditions behind the Iron Curtain.

Training Stopped Up
Western sources say the Russians have not been increasing their own forces, but the satellite armies have been strengthened recently.

The training level of both the Russian and satellite armies has been steadily improving, these informants say.

Russia herself is believed to have an army of between 165 and 175 divisions with almost a third of them fully motorized or armored, westerners estimate.

Present dispositions of the Soviet and satellite armies do seem to indicate any military strike is in the making, according to this information.

Watch Two Nations
However, the satellites are continuing to push agents into Greece and anti-Communist Yugoslavia.

One informant said that a few months ago Greece destroyed a group of 27 specially picked Greek Communists infiltrating from Albania. "They had 12 expensive radio transmitters with them to send back intelligence to Tirana, the informant said.

Two Held for Robbery
New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—Two youths, one 16 years old and one 17, were held in $5,000 bail each for hearings Monday on robbery charges after their arraignment yesterday before Magistrate Emilio Nunez in youth part of felony court. The pair and two other boys, each 15, were arrested early yesterday in connection with a Bronx cafeteria holdup. Those being held are Charles J. Shaw, Jr., 16, of 9 Adrian avenue, and Charles Weston, 17, of 1430 Greenport Road, Far Rockaway. The youngsters were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Clergymen Favor Prayers in School
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Clergymen throughout New York state have joined Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in commending a Board of Regents proposal that public schools open the day with a prayer, as well as a pledge of allegiance to the flag.

But Joseph Lewis, president of the Freethinkers of America, threatens legal action "to prevent the contamination of the public schools by the proposal."

The idea also was called unconstitutional and an effort to scuttle the principle of separation of church and state.

Dewey pledged "wholehearted support" yesterday after the regents called for school programs stressing "the moral and spiritual heritage which is America's."

The 13-member board comprised of business and professional leaders, governs education in New York.

The regents' statement apparently was directed at atheistic communism and general immorality.

Spokesmen of the State Education Department said "it does not mandate schools to open their day with a prayer. But if local boards of education * * * decide to do so, they have the regents' approval in advance."

Your Life and Mine

STICK-TO-ITIVENESS
The way oak leaves hang to the branches long after other trees have shed theirs has long been a source of interest to me. Let one good frost come and the maple leaves seem to whisper to one another and say: "What's the use?" They can't "take it." They surrender to the attack of the elements easily. But not the leaves on the oak. They hang right there as though to defy what frosts can do. They refuse to sever their connections with the tree at the first chilly threatenings of those initial cold snaps.

Surely stick-to-itiveness is one of the most important characteristics of a successful life. Nothing of very great importance is ever accomplished without it. The Duke of Wellington used to say that British soldiers were no braver than Frenchmen, but they could be brave five minutes longer. Bravery that has the five-minute edge is the kind that wins. Sometimes the greatest challenge is just to "keep on keeping on." Humdrum repetition is part and parcel of every adult life. We awaken out of our youthful dream of what we think life is going to be like to discover the stubborn reality of the stern nature of life. And surely a large part of that rude awakening is just the dawn realization that the greater share of life is made up of a demanding repetition of the world's work gets done, and every hope is won through dogged persistence. Do you recall that place in Shakespeare where Macbeth suggests an alarming possibility: "If we should fail?" And Lady Macbeth replies: "We fail! But screw your courage to the sticking place, and we'll not fail."

"If progress falters a moment," says Phillips Brooks, "the whole mass of obstructive ignorance is rolled upon it. If goodness goes to sleep, a sleepless wickedness is across the valley and the fields which it has taken months of toil to ripen are swept off in a night." There is no synthetic we can substitute for a persistent vigil.

There is an old proverb which goes like this: "By perseverance the snail reached the ark." I, for one, have always been glad that he made it. The speeder creatures must have tried to discourage the snail as they sailed past: "You might as well save your energy, friend, for you'll never make it." Even the speed demon named Mr. Tortoise must have looked back at the snail and laughed as he rushed on toward his destination. But I think old Noah must have stood and held the door open, and asked God to slow up the rain a little, when he saw the snail coming. For he could see that here was one creature that would not get along without him, and have occupied an inconspicuously humble place on the ledge of some supporting beam after he arrived; but he made it and he made it by his persistence.

I am not so sure but what we could, as a world, get along very well without the speeder that are superhuman. Of one thing I am sure—the world is made and remade, and saved every day, by the men and women who learn from the snail the miracles that only stick-to-itiveness will perform.

Religious Radio Programs

"Silent Night, Holy Night"

It was in 1818 that Joseph Mohr, young parish priest, wrote the words, and Franz Gruber, church organist, the music to "Silent Night, Holy Night." What inspired the lovely carol—and the earlier, behind other familiar Christmas songs—is told in our Yuletide strip.

"The Songs of Christmas," which will appear in The Freeman beginning Monday, Dec. 3

Why Catholics "Keep Running to Church"

You've probably heard people comment at times on the fact that their Catholic neighbors go to church so often. Perhaps you have wondered yourself... is all this necessary?

Catholics, you may be sure, have good reasons. Going to Mass on Sunday is, of course, an obligation for every Catholic. Confession and Holy Communion at least once a year are a sacred duty. But most Catholics go to Confession and receive Holy Communion often... some every month, some every week, some every day.

There are also many other special services and devotions for which Catholics go to church. In the average city, the Catholic Church is always open — and seldom empty. Many will enter the church at any hour of the day to visit Jesus Christ present on the altar, mindful of His invitation: "Come to Me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest."

But, you ask, is all this necessary? Catholics believe it is.

They believe that Christ not only called upon us to honor and serve God... but prescribed the ways in which we should do so. He did not say how often we must go to church... nor how many prayers we were to recite. But He did establish a Church with the power and authority to carry on His work... and He promised that His Church would

Discard Pile Rule Is Confusing

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Questions, both new and old, continue to pour in. In some cases I recognize the question before I have finished the first sentence of the letter. The problem is an old friend, one that I've answered a few hundred times already, and I know that I can relax and answer it in my sleep.

For example, people are still asking the familiar question about taking the first discard pile for an initial meld with a natural card and a wild card. Mr. and Mrs. John Doe puts down two aces and two jokers to make the initial meld—and then tries to take the discarded six with one natural six and one deuce. That is not legal.

The rule is that you are allowed to take the discard pile with one natural card and a wild card only if your side has made the initial meld at a previous turn.

Sometimes this rule is misunderstood in a new and different way. For example, John Doe puts down two aces and two deuces and wants to take the discarded queen with two queens and one deuce.

This is perfectly legal. There is nothing wrong with using one or more wild cards in your initial meld. The important point is to have at least two natural cards that match the top card of the discard pile.

Another familiar question has to do with black threes. "Are you allowed to discard," people want to know, "after melding out with three or four black threes?" The answer is a decided yes. Whenever you meld out—regardless of the black threes—you may either discard or not, as you please. You still have that choice when you meld out with black threes.

A less familiar question has to do with melding twelve cards for the initial meld. The count was 120 points, and the discard pile was topped by a king. The player put down his entire hand—three kings, four queens, and four jacks, counting 120 points with the top card of the discard pile.

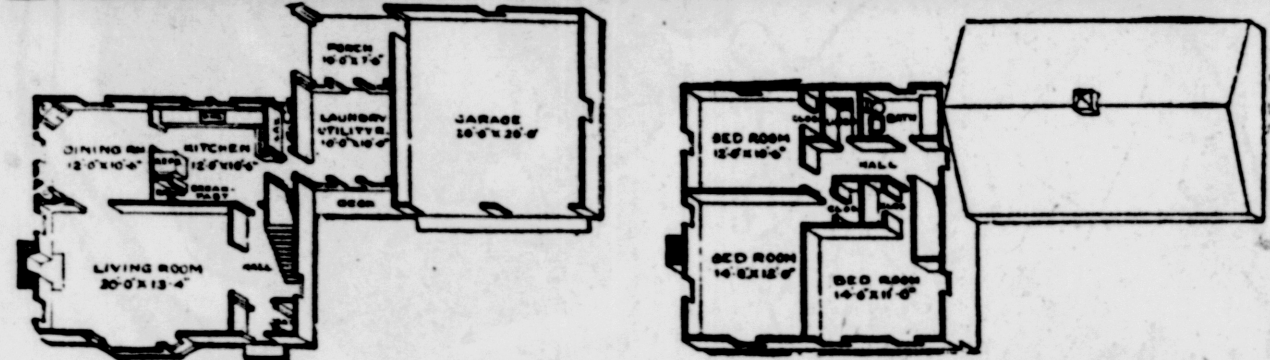

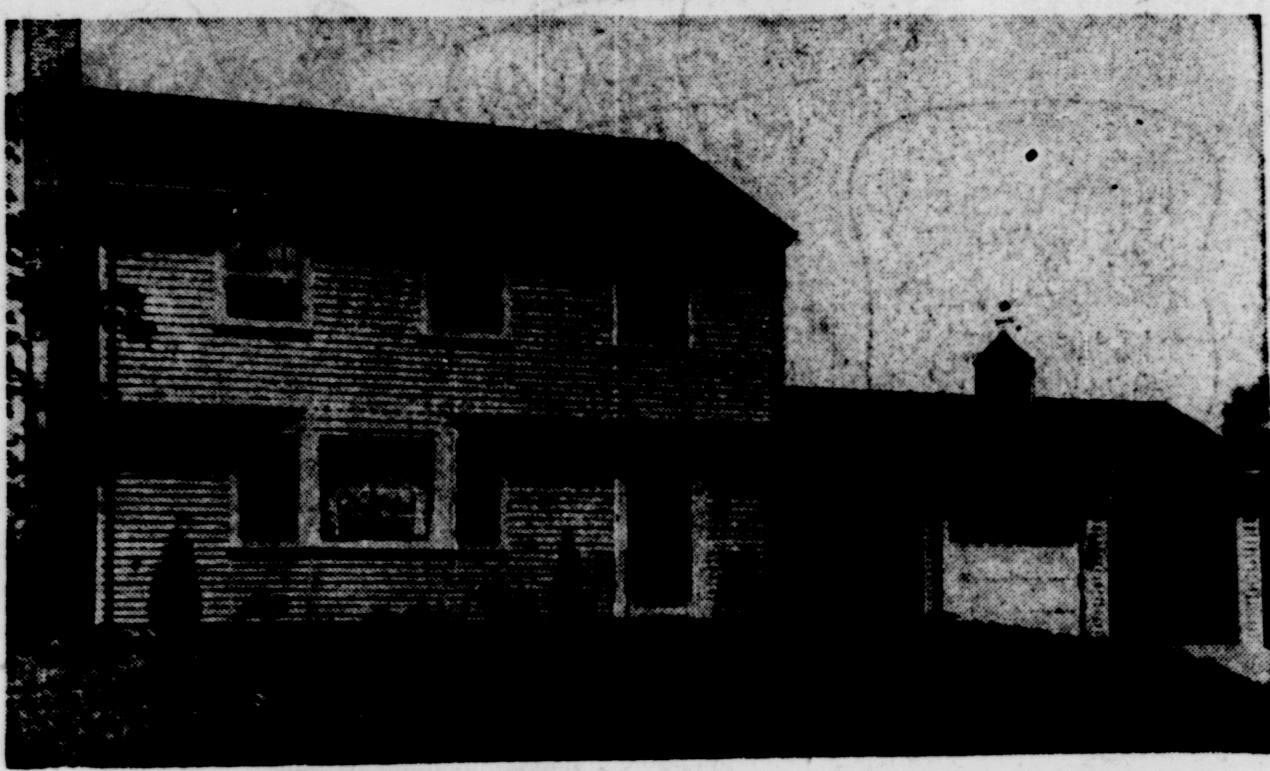

Was it legal to meld the entire hand, and to rely on the cards of the discard pile for a discard and some cards to keep in the hand?

Yes. That is perfectly legal. There must be at least two cards under that king in the discard pile. The player must be able to discard one card and to keep at least one card in his hand to play on with.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Bridge players who live in the big cities take it for granted that people who come from smaller cities can't possibly be first class players. This quaint idea is not supported by the tournament records. There are great players all over the country, in rural districts, small towns, and cities of all sizes.

You couldn't want a better proof than the case of Mr. and Mrs. William Thiemann who came to last year's national tournament from Colorado Springs to place second in the national mixed pair championship. They were so pleased with their first experience in national competition that they are expected to try again next week when the championships are held in Detroit.

Today's hand, played by the Thiemanns in a recent rubber bridge game, shows a neat point of defensive co-operation.

Mr. Thiemann hit upon the nine of spades as his opening lead. This was a somewhat lucky choice, since he had a mental toss-up between the nine of spades and the seven of hearts.

The heart lead would have given declarer time to make the contract; but the spade lead gave the defense a chance to snatch five tricks in a hurry.

The important point was to avoid undue haste. When dummy played the jack of spades at the first trick, Mrs. Thiemann (holding the East cards) played the encouraging ten of spades instead of winning the trick.

Declarer could count on winning two spades, three hearts, and only three tricks in which ever minor suit he attacked first. This meant that he had to work on both minor suits to develop nine tricks.

After winning the first trick in dummy with the jack of spades, declarer led a diamond. West took his ace promptly and led the eight of spades to dummy's ace. South had to lead clubs before he could get nine tricks.

This gave West a chance to take the ace of clubs and lead his last spade. By this time Mrs. Thiemann could afford to take the king of spades, since the rest of her suit was established.

Warns of Optimism

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—The head of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis warned last night of "over-optimism" in regard to experiments to develop an immunization method against polio. The job will "take lots of time, and success is not just around the corner," said Basil O'Connor. He appeared before a meeting of leaders of the March of Dimes campaign from Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The drive, which opens next month, will continue for a full month instead of the customary two-week period.

Test Suit May Decide

Utica, Dec. 1 (AP)—A test suit in federal court may decide whether 10,000 state employees receive federal tax refunds running into thousands of dollars. The suit seeks to void a federal income tax on lodging and maintenance furnished to employees of state institutions. Dr. Oscar K. Diamond, a psychiatrist at Willard State Hospital in Ovid, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bruen, employees of the State Training School for boys at Warwick are the complainants.

Conveniently Planned With All Bedrooms On Second Floor

Rooms Seven
Bedrooms Three
Closets Six
Cubage
Main House 20,300 sq. ft.
Wing 9,000 sq. ft.

Dimensions
Main House 28 x 25 ft.
Wing 31 x 21 ft.

The front door opens on a rectangular shaped entry hall. There is a convenient coat closet occupying the right wall in the front hallway.

Stairs to the second floor are located in the central hallway which opens off the entry hall and connects with the kitchen and living room. A window in the right wall lights this hallway.

Largest of the seven rooms in the house, the living room is 20'x14'4" in dimensions. The three-windowed bay in the front wall and the handsome fireplace centered in the left wall are the most attractive features of this room, and the decorative scheme should be planned to capitalize upon this fact.

Connected with the living room by an archway, the dining room is 12'x10'6"; it enjoys cross ventilation and plenty of light from a window in the back wall and another window in the left wall. You'll be able to put to good use the china closets built into the two left corners of the room.

Handy Dining Room

Since the dining room also is connected directly with the kitchen, family dinners or formal meals present no serving problem. Thoroughly modern in every way, the kitchen is 12'x10'6" in dimensions. The sink is located in the center of the working counter directly under the double windows in the back wall; the stove is conveniently placed against the right wall, just beside the working counters.

Within a few steps of the counters and the stove, the refrigerator is located against the left wall, beside the swinging door from the dining room. You'll be able to store all sorts of cleaning equipment in the handy broom closet in the left front corner of the room.

Lighted by one window in the back wall, the first floor lavatory is placed between the kitchen and laundry and opens on the connecting hallway. Stairs to the cellar also open off this hallway and are located directly opposite the lavatory.

With doors leading to both the front sun deck and the back porch, the laundry or utility room is also well lighted by two windows in the front wall and two in the back wall. Measuring 10' square, this room is large enough to hold a complete automatic home laundry.

On the second floor, a central hallway connects the three bedrooms, the bath and the large linen storage room.

Either of the front bedrooms could serve as the master bedroom. The bedroom on the right side of the house, just beside the stairway, receives good cross ventilation through the window in the right wall and the two windows in the front wall. Measuring 14'6"x11', this room has an unusually large clothes closet which actually is not in the room at all but opens on a tiny hallway leading from the central hall to the bedroom door.

The left front bedroom has two windows in the left wall and one in the front wall. Measuring 14'x12', this room also has a large closet, located back to the closet in the other front bedroom, and also opening on a small hallway connecting with the central hall and the bedroom door.

If you decide to use the right front bedroom as the master bedroom, you can reserve this other front bedroom for the young men in your house.

Located in the back right corner of the second floor, the all modern bath holds both a tub and a built-in shower. It is well lighted by the one window in the back wall.

Enjoying the benefits of good cross ventilation from one window in the back wall and the other in the left wall, the back bedroom is 12'x10'6" in dimensions. This room also has a large closet so there would be no storage problem in the "East Hampton."

Wall and Ceiling Tints Conceal Bad Proportions

Long a valued device of interior decorators, the use of wall and ceiling tints to conceal bad proportions and accent the feeling of space is now being commonly used by home owners.

Light colors, those mixed with white, tend to create a feeling of space and should be used as groundwork when this effect is sought. By using a gray background throughout the house, brightened with light shades of yellow, pale green, coral or other similar tints, a sense of space will be attained, and normally dark rooms will appear brighter.

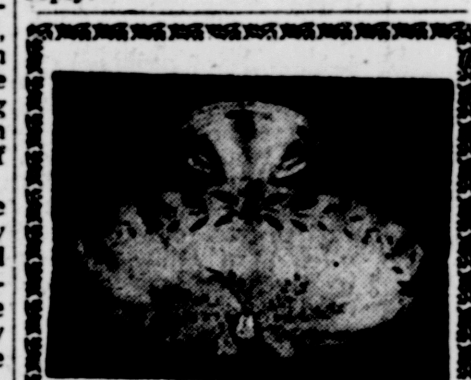

If the house is too dark and appears too empty, the action should be reversed. Dark shades of warm, glowing colors, should be used to draw together an oversized room. Square rooms may be made to appear rectangular by finishing opposite walls in a light shade and paneling the other two walls in clear or knotty pine. A fireplace wall in knotty pine provides a harmonious background for a cheery blaze and takes away the monotony of four identical walls.

When too much sunlight streams into a room, the intensity should be tempered with green or shades of blue. Rooms receiving too little sunlight should be treated with sun shades such as yellow, light gold or chartreuse.

For Too-High Window

A high, narrow window can be apparently lowered and widened by extending the curtain rods out on the wall at either side and hanging the draperies to the floor.

Yellows and Greens New Nursery Colors

The popularity of pink and blue, the perennial favorites for nursery furniture is giving way this year to such delightful new colors as buttercup yellow, pistachio green, and chartreuse. Sometimes trimmed with white, they're a refreshing change from the usual nursery colors and lend themselves to a number of interesting color schemes such as brown-and-yellow, gray-and-yellow, pistachio-and-gray, or chartreuse with soft violet.

Function has also been stressed in the newest styles for the youngsters. New functional features to note are the costumes which are also a night light, night tables that may be used to form a vanity dresser later on, plastic teething rails on cribs, and smooth-sliding tray drawers in the wardrobes.

Splashes Don't Show

When painting the floor of a basement, it's a good idea to paint six or eight inches of the side walls above the floor in the same color as the floor. Then unavoidable splashes when the floor is cleaned, will not be so likely to show.

'COVER UP' ON SCANDALS

Attorney General McGrath has magnanimously promised not to discharge Charles O'Gara, assistant U. S. attorney, who was recommended for dismissal by his superior after delving into wrong-doing in the San Francisco Internal Revenue Bureau.

O'Gara was taken off income tax matters upon reporting in detail to his superiors the evidences of irregularity he had found. Later, however, he came to Washington to testify to the Senate Finance Committee on the "shocking corruption" unearthed in the San Francisco office.

There followed the recommendation by Chauncey Tramuto, U. S. attorney, that O'Gara be fired. Since then it has been disclosed that another man, Thomas Doolan, deputy revenue bureau collector, is under criticism for his part in baring the San Francisco irregularities.

The great bulk of the evidence compiled by O'Gara is not, of course, on the public record. Conceivably some of it would not stand up in the court; certain inaccuracies already have been alleged. But that it must have had much substance is attested to by the fact that there have been several suspensions from duty in the San Francisco internal revenue office. San Francisco is linked with half a dozen other major cities as being in the forefront of the tax scandal story.

It is mildly comforting to have McGrath's assurance he will not fire O'Gara. But that is only a short step in the right direction.

What the American public is entitled to know is how does it happen that men like O'Gara and Doolan, who presumably believe they are doing their duty in exposing corruption, are criticized or threatened with dismissal as a consequence?

Senator Nixon, California Republican, says word has reached him that government investigators have launched a new inquiry, not to get that answer, but to discover "who let the cat out of the bag."

People are fed up with these elaborate attempts of administration officials to cover up wrong-doing. They would like the culprits named and brought to book.

The King House subcommittee investigating the tax scandals will get a chance shortly to dig first hand into the San Francisco mess. It ought to go in with full energy. If McGrath or others in Washington will not find out and tell people why honest public servants are being penalized for diligent performance of duty, then the committee should.

The more the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Bureau scramble to conceal the full story, the more offensive the stench becomes. Apparently somebody high in official circles has the misguided notion that this is shrewd politics. In truth, it is the most inept politics imaginable.

BEHAVIOR YARDSTICK

A community which is subject to periodic floods or storms which cut off its contact with the rest of the world can make some provision for meeting such emergencies, arranging to have supplies on hand to last the duration of the crisis. These preparations can be made on the basis of predictions of the effect of the storm or flood. If similar predictions could be made as to the physical and mental reactions of people in an emergency, much suffering could be prevented.

On the basis of a survey in Oneonta, Columbia University is attempting to measure the physical and mental stability of a community, with an eye to predicting how such a community would react to disaster conditions. The study is being made for the United States Public Health Service, and the findings may provide some kind of yardstick for measuring the frequency of mental and physical disabilities in typical communities.

One factor which will have an effect on the results of the survey is the intangible quality which makes people in a crisis behave in an unselfish and often heroic manner. There have been instances where people of little apparent physical strength have worked long hours under the urge of the

THE CHILDREN'S FUND

May I ask my publishers and editors and readers to permit me this once to write an advertisement. It is for the International Children's Emergency Fund of the United Nations. It is for children.

Each Christmas this fund sells Christmas cards, the proceeds of which are used to help children all over the world. This year, they are issuing two kinds of cards, one rather formal, the other, by Dagmar Starcke, a Danish artist, full of color and delightful for children to send to each other.

The cards are sold at the United Nations and may be purchased by writing to UNICEF Greeting Card Fund, United Nations, New York.

War takes a greater toll of children than of soldiers. Many are killed. Many are maimed. Many are starved. Many forever suffer from shock. Many grow into adults, broken in mind and spirit and suffering the perversions of twisted personalities.

When sons die before their fathers, the tragedy is that the natural ties of family life are broken. Under any circumstance, without a wholesome family environment in childhood, a child grows like an unpruned rose bush. After each war in Europe, thousands of parentless children become a social and moral problem.

The children's fund is no substitute for a normal family environment for a child but it does mean that love and charity and compassion have not altogether shriveled in these troubled times. It means that charity is not dead.

The executive director of the children's fund is Maurice Pate, an American from Denver, Colorado, for whom I have not only admiration but affection because he has given long years, from the relief agencies of Herbert Hoover in World War I to this very day, to help other human beings, particularly children. It is heartening to realize that there are still many men and women who think not of themselves or their interests but of what they can do, each perhaps in a small way, to make life less tragic for these hostages to war and hate.

Herbert Hoover was able to gather a crew of such men for his various relief enterprises, beginning with Belgian relief. Many of them were volunteers. There was nothing in this work for any of them—not even honors. None of them have advertised their virtues or sought credit for their labors.

Once a year, many of them still meet at a dinner, often addressed by "the chief." It is a quiet, peaceful, kindly group that calls itself the A. R. A. and they recall feeding Belgians, aiding Polish children, bringing food to thousands of the hungry of Russia, and laboring to safeguard women, children and old men among the enemy as armed friends. Somehow some of these men have gained out of their experience a selflessness that remains with them through life and that many of us seek but lose on the road of life.

And there are the children's fund that moves about the world seeking out the little ones who have done no wrong but who suffer most.

When you look at those pictures of Korea in the newspapers, of the roads on which little children search for their parents, or perhaps hope to attach themselves to some American whose warm hand feels like a father's—must you not want to put a Christmas tree right there in the middle of that road, a tree just covered with candies and cakes and little joys that every child's heart must crave?

Wars make the world cold. We have had 37 years of war and we are becoming so used to horror and hunger and death that we take everything in our stride. Death no longer makes headlines.

But many Americans never grow so hard that the suffering of a child does not bring a tear nor that unspoken fear that it might have been our own.

That is why now, for the second year, I make this appeal to my publishers, editors and readers to support this mercy. It calls for so small an expenditure, yet I cannot forget that it was the penalties of American schoolchildren that erected the Statue of Liberty. Must we not bring hope, if not liberty, to children the world over?

Last year, after this appeal was made, the children's fund sold out all the cards they had printed. Perhaps this year, we shall do better—we shall require them to continue to print cards until the very eve of Christmas.

BLOOD PRESSURE

I have written before about the professional boxer who motored about 250 miles by car to get weighed in at 2:00 p. m. for a bout at 8:00 p. m. On his trip the car went into a ditch and turned over a couple of times, but he was unhurt. Unfortunately, he had a heart murmur, not uncommon at his age, and his heart and blood pressure were not quite normal, due to the accident, when he was examined at 2:00 p. m. The examining physician stated that if there was any improvement, however slight, at 8:00 p. m. he'd allow him to box, as he felt that the emotional disturbance of the motor accident may have affected his heart and blood pressure.

The emotional disturbances can affect the heart even more than physical effort has been known for a long time to physicians; therefore, when a patient is well known to the physician, the physician makes allowance for this in his examination.

In Geriatrics (diseases of the elderly), Dr. H. A. Rusk reports his experience with a group of 35 patients, including 18 men and 17 women about half of whom were over 45 years of age. They were all given electrocardiograph tests (which record the regular or irregular workings of the heart). The majority had complaints which had to do with heart and blood pressure; some true organic or structural defects, and others attributable primarily to the emotions.

Electrocardiograph electrodes were attached to the patient, who lay on a bed while he was interviewed. The physician who was familiar with the patient's history, directed the conversation from time to time to topics known to be disturbing to the patient. At other times the patient was asked to relax or was diverted by pleasant conversation. Electrocardiograms were taken at frequent intervals during the interview. Notes were made of the patient's behavior, movements, voice and remarks, to obtain an idea of his emotional state. The patient was then given exercise equal to climbing four flights of stairs and in no case did the blood pressure rise as high as at emotional peaks during the interview.

The lesson here is that while most of us, as we grow older, are careful not to take heavy exercise, slowing our pace while walking and avoiding lifting heavy objects, we may allow ourselves to become upset about even small matters of our daily life.

How Is Your Blood Pressure? Is your blood pressure high? Is it low? Do you know what precautions to take in either case? Send today for Dr. Barton's informative booklet on this subject entitled "How Is Your Blood Pressure?" enclosing 25 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

needs of other people in difficulty. Perhaps this is a factor which cannot be measured, but any prediction of human behavior in an emergency would be inaccurate if it is not taken into account.

"I'm Not Promising Anything, Y'Understand, But..."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Senate hearings have barely scratched the surface of the scandals in the Ohio election in which Senator Taft defeated Joseph E. Ferguson in 1950. The inside story is that Senate investigators uncovered shocking law violations on both sides.

Believing that honest elections are the backbone of democracy, this column has obtained a copy of the Senate investigators' secret report. It shows a wholesale winking at the laws and should be published as a warning to the voters in 1952.

Here are some blunt statements which conscientious Senate investigators wrote of the Ohio campaign: "It was found that the policy of the Ohio Republican Finance Committee was against filing reports of contributions received before May 1 and after Election Day. This policy appears to constitute a serious evasion of state law. Our evidence also indicates that the Ohio Taft for Senate committee may have concealed the fact that it received substantial contributions....

"We have uncovered evidence," the report continues, "that an unauthorized check-off was used to obtain $1 from each of 2,000 Amalgamated Clothing Workers in northern Ohio. Violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, both by the labor unions and by the clothing companies involved, seems apparent. "Both sides were found guilty of filing reports with the county board of elections when they should have been filed with the Secretary of State in Columbus," the report adds. "Both sides tended to ignore the requirement that contributions of things of value other than money are required by the Ohio law to be accounted for and reported."

Law Ohio Officials However, the report blasts the "lax attitude on the part of state officials" as contributing to an "attitude of carelessness on the part of political committees in complying with the law."

Specifically, the investigators

Pointing out that the ads were published only during the election campaign, the report comments: "The view that the advertisements were politically motivated, of course, is strengthened by the observation that publication of the names of the sponsors would weaken the effectiveness of the advertisements."

"It is possible," adds the report, "that several of the free enterprise and Timken advertisements could be classified as 'political.' If this were true, the Federal Corrupt Practices Act and the Ohio election law would apply."

Cyrus Eaton's Secret Gift "Deceptive" contributions were also uncovered from Cyrus Eaton, head of Otis and Company, to the United Mine Workers' Non-Partisan League.

"Our investigators have uncovered evidence that Cyrus Eaton, Sr. of Cleveland contributed $5,000 directly and at least $12,500 indirectly to Labor's Non-Partisan League—United Mine Workers of America," the secret report charges. "The indirect method Mr. Eaton used was to deposit $5,000 in the bank accounts of his son, Cyrus Eaton, Jr., and a total of $7,500 in the bank accounts of two employees of Otis and Company, John A. Kruse ($5,000) and Dorothy Workal ($2,500)."

Cyrus Eaton, Jr. and the two employees then gave their checks to Labor's Non-Partisan League. "The report filed by Labor's Non-Partisan League in Columbus shows that five other employees of Otis and Company contributed a total of $17,500," adds the report. "It is therefore possible that Cyrus Eaton, Sr. was responsible directly and indirectly for a total contribution of $35,000."

"Cyrus Eaton's concealment creates a deceptive statement and therefore is, in our opinion, a violation of the (Ohio election) law," concludes the report.

Note 1.—It was only two decades ago that Senator Vane of Pennsylvania, Republican, was barred from the Senate because he spent approximately $200,000 in the Republican primary against George Wharton Pepper. Sen. Frank Smith of Illinois was also barred from the Senate because he spent approximately $100,000, while Senator Newberry of Michigan was so severely criticized by Senate colleagues for campaign expenditures that when a move was started to unseat him, he resigned.

In those days, public opinion was alert and virile. Today, one reason for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act and graft in public office appears to be the blase reaction of public opinion. Note 2.—The Senate investigators also lectured the CIO for staging anti-Taft rallies and using an effigy of Taft as the target in a baseball game.

"Even if the working people who attended these rallies were not aroused to hatred of Taft," comment the Senate probers, "it can hardly be said that the device used by the CIO was 'good clean fun.'"

STATE BUILDING CODE

Editor, The Freeman
The following is a copy of a letter addressed to Mayor Newkirk relative to the new state building code.

November 28, 1951

Hon. Oscar V. Newkirk
Mayor, City of Kingston
Kingston, New York

My Dear Mayor:

I noted several days ago that Mamaroneck, New York is the first municipality in our State to take advantage of the new State Building Code promulgated by the Commission which was created by the Legislature in 1949.

I was thus reminded that during my tenure as Corporation Counsel, the problem of revising and modernizing the building code in our City was, and for that matter still is, the concern of the Administration and of Chief Murphy upon whom, under our anti-quoted code, responsibility rested and still does with respect to the enforcement of what provisions there are which require compliance. I know too that the revision of this code has been a problem to earlier administrations as well as in your own.

The action of the Legislature in adopting such a code tends to make more uniform the building regulations throughout the State and relieves the municipalities, already heavily taxed because of other obligations, from the burden of revising existing codes and keeping them up to date by amendment.

It is my opinion that Kingston should exercise the optional right it has and adopt building code prepared by the Commission. The importance of such action is particularly emphasized by the Housing Projects which are here presently being pursued.

Very truly yours,
ARTHUR B. EWIG

No More Cribbage Pegs

Des Moines, Ia. (AP)—Louis Peterson, 29, who got tired of losing the pegs of his cribbage board, has invented one without pegs. Peterson has obtained a patent on the pegless board. It consists of two transparent plastic dials. One dial revolves under the other against a clock-like face. Use of two dials permits the setting of each dial alternately so the player can tell not only how far they've gone, but where they started the last count. Peterson says he is hunting for a manufacturer.

So They Say...

The name-calling going on in America today is dangerous very dangerous. The nation has grown great because we have respected the rights of dissenters. . . . Thought and speech are not free if a man who speaks his mind is subjected to name-calling.

—Paul G. Hoffman, president, Ford Foundation.

It will take four to six billion dollars a year for the next ten years to build essential roads, to modernize existing highways and to maintain our present system in satisfactory condition.

Questions—Answers

Q—When was the Cullinan diamond found?

A—The largest diamond ever mined, the Cullinan was found in Africa in 1905. It weighed over 3,000 carats.

Q—Could a person live on a diet of milk alone?

A—No; although milk comes nearer than any other single food to affording all the essentials of a complete diet, it is deficient in iron, copper and manganese, which are needed in small amounts, as well as in Vitamin A and D. A person living on a diet of milk exclusively would develop anemia and other disorders due to the vitamin deficiency.

Believe It or Not!

The Temple of Karsha-Nag in the Suil Valley, India, was built in the shape of a bamboo parasol. Karsha-Nag is a snake who abhors sunshine, so a stone temple was built in the shape of a sunshade to protect the holy serpent from its adversary.

Among Those at UC Farm and Home Bureau, 4-H Dinner

Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association Thursday night at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. Officers and guests attending the dinner are shown in the usual order. Mrs. Eliza Keats Young, who gave the invocation; Mrs. William Douglas, secretary; William A. Coy, vice-president; Fred DuBois, Jr., president; Albert Kurdt, guest speaker; and Mrs. William Warren, honorary president of the association. (Freeman Photo)

Fred DuBois, Jr., Re-elected President
Of UC Farm and Home Bureau Association

Fred DuBois, Jr., of New Paltz was re-elected president of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association at the annual meeting Thursday night at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

William Coy of Clintondale was re-elected vice president, and Mrs. Sanford Cross of Kyserville was elected secretary, succeeding Mrs. William Douglas of Ellenville.

Re-elected to the Farm Bureau board were Walter Herring of Ulster Park and Frank Elliott of New Paltz. Harry Beatty's term having expired after the full nine years of service allowed by the constitution, Paul Lien of Wallkill was elected to his place on the board. Terms are for three years, and three terms is the maximum an individual can serve consecutively. In proposing the slate of board members, Vernon Barnhart, chairman of a nominating committee, paid high tribute to Beatty for his years of service.

Mrs. George Siste, Sr., of Plattville and Mrs. William Douglas of Ellenville were re-elected to three year terms on the Home Bureau executive board. Mrs. Wilbur Van Wyck of Wallkill was elected to replace Mrs. William Powers of Kingston as an executive committee member. Mrs. Powers, who has been the Home Bureau chairman, had served the maximum of six years allowed by the Home Bureau constitution, and she was complimented on her accomplishments as chairman in the nominating committee's report submitted by Mrs. Millard Davis, committee chairman.

Re-elected to the 4-H Club executive board were Franklin Kelder of Accord; Eber Coy, Ardonia, and Mrs. Sanford Cross, Kyserville. Pratt Boice gave a summary of financial reports of the three groups.

Membership reports were given by William Coy for the Farm Bureau, showing 868 memberships already renewed for 1952. The 1951 Farm Bureau membership stands at 1,151. Pratt Boice, reporting for the 4-H Clubs, said 409 memberships have already been renewed. The 1951 membership in that department is 612, and there are 43 separate 4-H Clubs in existence in the county, he reported. Mrs. Powers reported the Home Bureau current membership is 1,819.

The Wallkill Community won the Kingston Chamber of Commerce place awarded annually to the Farm Bureau community showing greatest increase in membership. The plaque by George Shively of the C. of C. Hurley community placed second and Kerhonkson, third.

Al Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and former Ulster County Agricultural agent, gave an illustrated talk on his trip in western U. S. this summer, showing many slides of farming conditions and irrigation methods in the west. Other scenes of Yellowstone National Park were shown, comparing summer beauty with winter scenes taken by Kurdt in a previous trip when there was six inches of snow on the ground.

Shirley Pratt of Stone Ridge, a member of the Cedar Ridge 4-H Club, reviewed the history of 4-H Club work since it began in 1903. She described from personal experience the thrill of winning awards at the county fair and in district dress reviews.

Two skits were given by members who attended the training school in skits and social drama. What a Life was the title of the skit presented by the Ellenville unit, and Kingston units joined in presenting a skit entitled, Sunday Morning.

Pratt Boice was toastmaster. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk welcomed the delegates on behalf of the city of Kingston. Mrs. Eliza

A FRIENDLY GESTURE

A reader tells me: "For the past year I have been driving to and from work with a man who lives a few blocks away from me. He is a very kind person and often puts himself out to wait for me when I am a little late leaving the office. I would like very much to show my appreciation for his kindness. With Christmas not too far off I was wondering if it would be proper to buy him a small, impersonal gift. I would like to do something that might embarrass him. I might add that this man is married, and his wife is a stranger to me."

If he has children, toys for them would be perfect. Otherwise, find out what he likes to smoke and give him some of whatever it is. Or if you know of a gadget that his car is in need of, that would be nicer still.

Not In Public!

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents are giving a large party to announce my engagement. What I would like to know is, does my fiancé present me with my ring at the party, and if so, at what time, or does he give it to me privately before the party?

Answer: He will surely have given you your ring long before the party—in private!

One Note Sufficient

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct way to acknowledge a wedding present sent by a family, including mother and father and two daughters? Is it necessary to write one note to Mr. and Mrs. and another to the daughters?

Answer: One letter to the mother thanking her and her husband and daughters would be correct.

Here First

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and woman are about to smoke a cigarette, does he offer the light to her first, or does he light his own first and then hers?

Answer: He offers the light to her first, of course!

Some readers have written that they find introduction of family and friends confusing. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," will be helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Settled Out of Court

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—A negligence suit against Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, millionaire sportsman, and his butler has been settled out of court for a reported $89,000, the Times-Union said today. The sum went to Grant Ford and his wife Yvonne, of Albany, who were injured July 31, 1948, the newspaper said, in a collision between their motorcycle and Vanderbilt's automobile at a highway intersection near Albany.

Injunction Against TWU

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A federal judge restrained temporarily the CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU) from striking against the Third Avenue Transit Corporation, but TWU President Michael J. Quill says the drivers will take a strike vote on schedule Tuesday. Federal Judge Samuel Kaufman issued an injunction and show cause order yesterday against the TWU. He also directed that the strike vote be postponed.

Scene at St. John's Christmas Bazaar

The materials and decorating which created so much interest at the St. John's Episcopal Church hall yesterday, on the occasion of the annual Christmas bazaar and supper, were donated by Theodore A. Lyke, professional decorator. The successful event which grossed more than $800 was a result of the unlimited amount of work done by members of the Women's Auxiliary evening branch with the able assistance of the afternoon branch and the men of the parish. The table decorations were in charge of Mrs. Howard Greiner and her supper committee. Shown in the photo, in the usual order, are the Rev. Robert T. Schellenberger, Mrs. Robert Cousins, Mrs. J. Lewis Heiser, and Mrs. Edwin Strong. (Freeman Photo)

OFFICE CAT

(Trade Mark Reg.)
By Juntus

Five-year-old Carol, her mother decided, was quite ready for kindergarten even though the age requirement was six. The teacher, though, was quite unconvinced. "Say some words," she urged, as a test.

The child shifted her gaze from the teacher to her mother and asked, "Purely irrelevant words?"

Man—It's a dollar and sense wedding.
Wife—What do you mean?
Man—He hasn't a dollar and she hasn't any sense.

Overheard on the bus: "She's so positive that she probably uses a fountain pen to work crossword puzzles."

The easier work is made, the more men will produce.

Overheard on bus: "He is the kind of person who is fascinated by work... he can sit and look at it for hours."

Friend—What is Ed Goodby doing these days?
Neighbor—Oh, he's working his son's way through college.

Confused bridegroom to hotel clerk: "I'd like a room with a wife for myself and bath."

Your true friends are those who show no resentment when you win success.

Many people today are speeding down the road to hell as though they were going to a fire.

Mrs. Bragg—I claim that my daughter has the finest manners of any girl in this town.

Mrs. Cutting—Yes, she's been away from home a great deal, hasn't she?

Married ball players seldom argue with the umpire. They have forgotten how to argue.

A woman in England threw out on a public pathway all bulbs which she did not want to use in her garden. The bulbs took root and made a beautiful spot, right at a point where the public waited for the bus. The woman who had thrown the bulbs out of her garden was puzzled by the fact that there were never any weeds in this "public" garden. One day, glancing out of her window, she saw a man who was waiting for the bus stoop and pull several weeds from among the flowering

John Sangi Hits 643

John "Red" Sangi, prop. man at the Central Recreation, kept the family in the bowling headlines they have dominated three times this week by spanning a 643 series for a new Everybody's League record last night.

"Old Seabiscuit" rapped successive scores of 196, 214, and 233 for the new mark. His heavy pinning enabled the Central Rec squad to set a new team series record of 2742.

Ted Giles was league leader in the Electro with 187-195-178-560. Charlie Gildersleeve pounded 182-210-205-597 for top honors in the Mercantile American; Bob Fatum 184-210-188-582 in the Mercantile National.

Johnny Ferraro's 223-212-193-628 was the best of four "600" efforts in the Classic League and Leo Bechtold dominated the Hercules wheel with 162-202-247-611.

Robinson Fire 620 George Robinson fired a hat-trick 620 in the Classic with 213-203-204-610. Harold Broskie posted 224-200-616; Charlie Gildersleeve 220-205-609; Fred Ferraro 224-235-588; Kellenberger 222-222-587.

Black Houghtaling runner-up in the Everybody's circuit with 235-588. Bill Lawrence shot 584; Joe Sangi 201-572; Joe Heidcamp Jr. 201-222-565; Eltinge S. Auchmoody 553; J. Greco 232-550; Tom Welch 200-545 and Fred Schryver 202-542.

Steve Woyden trailed Giles in the Electro with 546 and Ed Gildernstern knocked off 540. Tony La Rocca rolled 539; Bud Deyo 529; Bill Harder 506; Tom Parker 500.

Vince Clearwater (206) and Clarence Herdman (211) topped 562s in the Hercules wheel. Bill Mohr cleaned up 541; J. Reis 201-524 and Earl Smedes 498.

Bill Theil hit 529 in the Y American, while Carmen Massa and Larry Jordan tied at 508. Eddie Auclair knocked off 507 and John Rowland hit 493. Ed Haines 536 was second best in the Y Mercantile National. Bill Hornbeck posted 525; S. Sahler 208-502 and Tobakman 498.

Case Has High Praise for Tom

Glendale, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees had a lot of nice things to say about Tommy Henrich today as he got ready to leave for the baseball meeting in the east.

Advised that Henrich had been released from his coaching duties with the Yankees, enabling the former playing star to engage in private business, Stengel declared:

"Henrich was without doubt one of the greatest ever to play for me. And he was a fine coach. So I appreciate why our organization wishes to be first in line for his services if and when he ever wants to come back into baseball."

Stengel, who trailed Giles in the Electro with 546 and Ed Gildernstern knocked off 540, Tony La Rocca rolled 539; Bud Deyo 529; Bill Harder 506; Tom Parker 500.

Vince Clearwater (206) and Clarence Herdman (211) topped 562s in the Hercules wheel. Bill Mohr cleaned up 541; J. Reis 201-524 and Earl Smedes 498.

Visconti, Ferraro Also in '200' Group

Newburgh Cy's Diner is running away from the pack in the Hudson Valley Bowling League and schedule secretary of Kingston's 1952 New York State bowling championships fingered through a pile of reservation blanks.

Meaning, of course, Ad Jones and Joe Magnino in that order. Magnino is also president of the Kingston Bowling Association; Jones a life member.

A big smile creased the face of the tournament manager. "We're running ahead of last year's reservations," he grinned. "Jim Burns in Elmira (tournament manager in 1951) tells me we can expect a bigger entry than they had last year—1521 to be exact."

"What about that 100-team goal you fellows have set for Kingston?" asked the visitor.

"Frankly, that's our biggest job," said Magnino. "The big cities like New York, Syracuse, Buffalo and Rome are coming through in expected fashion. But, here in Kingston, we're going to start hitting the league officials and captains hard. We will settle for nothing less than 100 teams and that means that our potential will have to be exploited to the hilt."

"That one-time rule will hurt," Jones said. "We have a lot of bowlers who roll in three or four leagues. That means that two or three teams will be without a particular man. Multiply that situation by the number of men who roll several times a week and you get an idea of the situation confronting us."

Did the tournament committee expect to reach 100 teams? "We certainly do," came the chorus. And we look for real support in the mid-Hudson area, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Middletown will send their largest delegations in history to the Kingston tournament.

We're going to rely on fellows like Charlie Conine in Newburgh; Bert Rhea and Don Crawford in Poughkeepsie and Ed Beebe in Middletown to help us put over a smashing entry list from the mid-Hudson area," Jones went on.

"New York Bowling Association is down for 100 teams," the visitors observed. "I have a hunch they'll do better."

"I'm inclined to agree," Jones continued. "you remember how Al Lattin, Ray Hoyer, John Goldsmith, Jim Wilson, Bill Landgraf and the other big boys came through with votes for Kingston when we bid for the tournament last May in Elmira. They've promised us support for '52."

Magnino thumbed through last year's prize list and observed: "Some of the scratch bowlers are traditionally opposed to handicap tournaments, but the rank and file realize that the state tournament is a good deal."

"In last year's tournament in Elmira, nearly $75,000 in prizes was awarded," the schedule secretary went on. "That's a lot of money and the 75 per cent handicap appeals to the average bowler."

"The state association wants the little guy to compete," he continued. "At the same time, the five scratch prizes in each division and awarding of titles for actual pinnage rolled is a bow to the sharpshooters."

Pointing out that Bob Lynch, eastern representative of the ABC, had been impressed by the enthusiasm he found among bowling officials in Kingston, Magnino said he felt Lynch would be of invaluable assistance in recruiting entries.

"Lynch has promised me all the help I need," said Magnino. "He gets around through the state and makes those personal contacts that are invaluable. He's going to be a big help."

"How can you account for such a shabby attendance at the bowling rally this week?" the visitor asked.

"I cannot account for it," Jones and Magnino admitted. "Our experiences with these affairs have been that the rank and file, for some reason, just won't get excited about them. I don't think the poor attendance reflects any letdown in interest in bowling locally. It's just one of those things hard to explain."

Was the committee recruiting any help for 1952?

"You can say this to every captain, league official and bowler in Kingston for us," said Magnino. "They'll all be asked to do their share in putting over the 1952 tournament. Don't let anybody feel he will be by-passed. We're going to ask everybody for help."

NCAA-TV Committee Backs 1951 Policy

Philadelphia, Dec. 1 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association claimed today it has saved college football television for the public and defended its experimental TV program as technically possible, commercially feasible and legal.

At an NCAA sponsored press conference, the organization's executive TV committee lashed out at critics and asked for support in its "effort to live with television."

Bob Hall, Yale athletic director, Tom Hamilton, football coach and athletic director at Pittsburgh, and Ralph Furey, Columbia athletic director, spoke for the NCAA.

The committee expressed hope that "the American public will again see college football on television during the 1952 season."

Furey said, "our experience this year demonstrates that football fans everywhere want to see the college games telecast. We trust this will be possible, in keeping with the best interest of all schools participating in collegiate competition."

"NCAA made college football available to the television audience of the United States this fall although the majority of member colleges were opposed to such a program."

Overcame Opposition
As a result of this experimental program, according to the National Broadcasting Company, 35,000,000 fans saw live telecasts of college football this fall.

The Columbia official said many big conferences, including the Big 10, were against live telecasts. "If we hadn't instituted our program there would have been less college football TV this season than without the plan. The NCAA saved football TV for the public," he declared.

Furey said many critics had claimed the NCAA program was not technically possible, commercially feasible or legal.

"We feel we've proved them wrong in every instance. I personally feel the experimental program has been a success and expect the statistics to be announced at our January convention in Cincinnati to prove me right."

Capt. Hamilton asserted football TV challenge the right of the colleges to protect their own interests.

"We are not required to give football away to the public. They don't put South Pacific (the Broadway musical hit) on every TV set. Why should the colleges have to show their games? It costs tickets at the game. If TV can't contribute to college football then let it show Hopalong Cassidy."

Kingston AZA State Champs Launch Title Defense Tonight

Doubles Match at Bowlodrome

Kingston's first major stakes bowling match—for $100—on a home-and-home basis will start at 10 o'clock tonight at Ferraro's Bowlodrome.

The principals—Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer and Larry Weishaupt of Kingston against Bill Guldenstern and Jim Beare of Catskill.

The doubles match is over the 10-game route. On paper, the invaders should be rank underdogs but the Catskillians have enjoyed great success in informal money matches against Saugerties and Kingston hotshots.

Kemmerer and Weishaupt are among the city's top five keggers. The former holds the seasonal Hudson Valley Bowling League records for high single and triple. Weishaupt has a "300" game to his credit.

Meet Poughkeepsie At Local Auditorium

B'nai B'rith's New York state championship AZA basketball team launches its bid for 1951-52 regional honors in the opener of the best-of-three series with the Poughkeepsie Chapter, tonight at the municipal auditorium at 7:45 p. m.

The winner of the Kingston-Poughkeepsie series will play in the state championship tournament in Buffalo on February 3.

Kingston advanced to the state title last year and then was eliminated in the New York-New England-Canada finals held in Kingston last spring.

The Everett, Mass., chapter of AZA won the international title. AZA is the national youth organization within the framework of B'nai B'rith which is developed to the promotion of sports for youth.

6,319 Combat Vets Will Arrive Monday

San Francisco, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two transports, carrying a total of 6,319 combat veterans of the Korean war, are scheduled to enter the Golden Gate Monday, the Military Sea Transport Service has announced.

One ship, with 4,777 army men aboard—some due for reassignment and leave, others for discharge—will dock at the Port of San Francisco, MSTS said yesterday.

The other ship, carrying 1,540

army men and two navy men will enter the gate later in the day and proceed directly inland to Camp Stoneman, where the returnees will be processed.

The MSTS also said four transports are arriving in the next few days returning personnel from non-combat areas.

Veteran Takes Bride

South Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)—Korean veteran Michael Thomas O'Rourke was married last night to his high school sweetheart and the judge who sentenced him to Thanksgiving in jail was on hand to offer congratulations. O'Rourke, 22, who came home from action in Korea and then was jailed on an old traffic charge, married Joan Adams, 19, in St. James Episcopal Church.

MODENA

Modena, Dec. 1—The regular clinic and child health consultation for infants and pre-school children of the Town of Plattkill will be held Monday, Dec. 10, two weeks ahead of the regular date due to the holiday season. The clinic will be held at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall in Modena Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Berthold of Wallkill, public health nurse, and volunteers.

The regular meeting of the Plattkill Town Board will be held Wednesday night, Dec. 12, at the town building in this place.

The Wesleyan Society Guild of the Modena Methodist Church will meet Thursday, Dec. 13, at the home of Mrs. Herbert Winter. The meeting will open at 8 p. m.

Members of the Plattkill Township Civic Association will meet Friday night, Dec. 14, at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Mrs. Lee Rognon of the Ardonia road, chairman of the association and Mrs. Tony Mouzithras is a newly appointed member of the membership committee. Both are local residents.

Burial services were held in the Modena Rural Cemetery Wednesday for Egbert S. Fowler of Clintonville, former resident of Plattkill. Mr. Fowler was 85 years of age and was born in Plattkill, the only son of the late Daniel and Sophia Fowler. He had lived in town during his entire life. He died at the Jennings' Nursing Home in Highland Sunday, Nov. 25.

John Clancy, who died at his home in New Paltz Sunday, Nov. 25, was a native of Modena, being a son of the late Brian and Katherine Kelly Gimm. Burial was in New Paltz.

Miss Gail Grimm was a bridesmaid at the wedding of her cousin, Marlene Elizabeth Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thorne of Newburgh, to Harold E. Dell, also of Newburgh. The ceremony was performed in the Grace Methodist Church, Newburgh.

Suzanne West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter West of Ardonia, celebrated her second birthday at a party given at her home Wednesday. Attending were Mrs. McIntosh and daughter, Sharon of Benton's Corners; Mrs. James Neilson and children, Charles and Pamela of New Paltz; Mrs. Carl Holmberg, Mrs. Oscar West, Mrs. Rudolph Holmberg and daughter, Karen Marie; Mrs. Harold West and son, Roger; Mrs. Frank Keiser and son, Edward; of Modena; Mrs. Mary Rutigliano, Mrs. Joseph Rutigliano and son, Joseph; Mrs. Frank Sabere and daughter, Joanne; Mrs. Carmen Sabere and son, Michael of Ardonia.

Miss Mary DuBois has been absent from her studies at the Wallkill High School, during the past week due to illness.

Mrs. Lott F. Ellis of Walden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, of Brookfield, visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roosa and daughter, Joan, Friday.

Leslie Decker, of the U. S. Army, left early this week by plane for Camp Chaffee, Ark., after spending a furlough with relatives and friends here.

Sgt. Frank E. Keiser, stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., is planning to spend the holiday vacation with his wife and son here.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Weber, Sr., of Hurley, and a friend from Kingston, spent Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roosa and daughter, Joan.

Mrs. Harvey Craig of Highland spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moran and children, Shirley and Ronald.

Stolen Car Found Damaged Less Than Hour After Report

An automobile reported stolen at 1:30 a. m. today from Hasbrouck avenue was found less than an hour later on East Chester street by-pass, where it had been ditched and abandoned.

The 1947 sedan owned by Donald Gavis of Connelly was located at 2:20 a. m. beyond the city line by Patrolmen George Dougherty and William Norton, who reported it was lying on its left side, off the pavement. Its headlights were on and its gasoline tank, front bumper and undercarriage were damaged, they reported.

No Trace of Thieves
A thorough search of the woods between the highway and the railroad's North Yard was made by the police officers with the assistance of Deputy Sheriffs William Thompson and Fred Bragg, but no trace of the car thieves was found, police reported.

The automobile was discovered, police thought they heard two persons talking in the woods, but were unable to locate them.

The automobile was found to be the one owned by Gavis after police, already alerted by Gavis, were informed by Fred Schabot of 31 Maple street that he spotted a damaged automobile on East Chester street extension while he was driving from Ruby towards Kingston.

The automobile was towed away by Sior's Wrecking Service at the request of Gavis, police said.

Brooklyn Man Injured As Car Hits Shale Banks

Arthur J. Sturm, 27, of Brooklyn was injured about 5 a. m. today when the automobile in which he was a passenger struck a patch of ice on Route 28 and spun into the shale banks along the highway near the Zena road intersection, state police reported.

Troopers said Sturm was treated at Kingston Hospital for injuries to the chin, right hip and both shoulders. He was later released from the hospital.

Sturm was riding in an automobile driven by John Edward Tynan, 27, of Floral Park, state police said. Headed west, the vehicle skidded into the shale bank on its right, spun across the road into the shale bank on its left, bounded back across the road and ended up off the right side of the highway, according to the state police report.

Mild Weather Due Says Capital Bureau

(By The Associated Press)
It was fair and comparatively mild weather over most of the country today. And the Federal Weather Bureau looks for more of the same in December.

The only wet areas today were in the Pacific Northwest and northern California. Early morning temperatures were a little cool in the Atlantic coast states but they were near or above normal in other areas.

The Weather Bureau in Washington in its monthly extended forecast said the outlook for December was for above seasonal temperatures over the southern half of the nation and in the Pacific Northwest. Not far from normal readings were predicted for the Northern Plains, Great Lakes region and along most of the Atlantic seaboard.

Manslaughter Verdict Given at Monticello

Monticello, Dec. 1 (AP)—Otis Luke Washington, 30, a Negro from Brooklyn, was found guilty of first degree manslaughter yesterday in the stabbing of another Negro, Oscar Aiken, 40, of Miami, Fla.

The stabbing took place May 31 outside a bar in South Fallsburg, near Monticello.

Washington went to trial on an indictment for second degree murder Nov. 19 before a jury in Sullivan County Court.

County Judge William Deckman set no date for sentence.

Washington is subject to imprisonment for up to 20 years.

At the time of the stabbing, Washington was employed at a bar in Woodbourne, and Aiken had a job in South Fallsburg Hotel. Washington gave a Brooklyn address (312A Quincy street) when arrested.

Navy Pilot Killed

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—A navy pilot, married just 11 days ago, was killed in an airplane crash yesterday at Atlantic City Naval Air Station at Pomona.

Squadron Administration Officer Lt. Cmdr. N. W. Briggs identified the pilot as Lt. John Wesley Mills, 29, a veteran of World War 2 and recalled to service last June. He said Mills died in a crash due to a "mal-functioning motor."

The pilot had just taken off for a routine practice flight and was attempting a forced landing. Briggs said Mills won the Navy Air Medal during World War 2 when he served as a fighter pilot aboard the carriers Saratoga and Kula Gulf.

Says Another War Would Be Fatal

"We can't go to war again; if we do, we are done for," Dr. E. Stanley Jones said at St. James Methodist Church Friday night in his final address of the six-night Preaching Mission here.

Dr. Jones said he favored war under certain conditions until the end of World War 2, when he said he began to believe some other method of resolving differences must be found.

"At the close of the war I lost faith with the ends of war and became disillusioned about war. I don't believe it produces the thing we want to produce," he said. "I don't want any Hiroshima to happen again to anybody, anywhere in the world."

Hopes Spirit Continues
In bringing to a close his series of six talks in this city, Dr. Jones remarked that he hoped the evangelistic spirit will not end with the Preaching Mission series. He hoped there will be an organized visitation evangelism in the city, during which church members will go out "two by two" to contact others.

He urged his listeners to "read the Bible, pray, and tell others about it."

Dr. Jones' talk Friday night was a resume of his own spiritual experiences from the time he was "converted" at the age of 17 to the present. He told of his determination to go to college and become a minister, of his decision to enter the missionary field, and of his recovery of his broken health 34 years ago by "surrendering myself to God."

Now, at the age of 67, Dr. Jones said he has concluded, "It is just sheer fun to be a Christian." He added that although his salary at many times was low, "through the years, I've never wanted for anything I really needed."

Beginning Sunday, Dr. Jones will embark upon a series of talks which will take him across the country and during which he will speak in 25 cities in 23 days, he said. It will be a crusade for a United Church, he revealed. Early in January he will return to India, where he spends the first six months of each year, returning to this country in July.

E. E. Gibson Bankrupt
New York, Dec. 1 (Special)—E. Edward Gibson of Red Hook, formerly in business as Penelope Ice Cream, Highland, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court here Friday. The petition lists liabilities totaling $4,607, all representing unsecured claims, and assets of $2,045, of which $2,000 is in insurance. The largest creditor is Bankers Commercial, New York, owed $2,937. Gibson, now employed as short order cook at McCann's Diner, Traffic Circle, Highland, also formerly operated a luncheonette in Poughkeepsie.

Demands Under Study

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1 (AP)—U. S. Steel Corp. took time out from contract talks with the CIO United Steelworkers today to ponder the 22 CIO demands which one union official said includes a 30-cent hourly pay hike. William Maihoffer, president of an Indiana USW local, gave the heretofore undisclosed figure last night in announcing his local will open negotiations with Inland Steel Co. in East Chicago, Ind., Monday. Maihoffer said the figure follows the general pattern for the union's demand throughout the steel industry.

Wholesale Prices Are Up Two-Tenths

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Wholesale prices crept up two-tenths of one per cent in the week ended Nov. 27, and farm prices rose about 1.7 per cent between mid-October and mid-November, government agencies said yesterday.

It was the second consecutive month that farm prices had risen, after a seven-month decline. The second month increase was about equal to that from mid-September to mid-October, the Department of Agriculture reported.

The mid-November farm price level, it said, was about 9.25 per cent above a year ago, and 21.6 per cent above the pre-Korea level.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its index of wholesale prices reached 177.6 per cent of the 1926 average. That was 13.2 per cent over the wholesale price level before fighting began in Korea and 2.9 per cent above a year ago.

9,000 Reviews Needed

VA is now faced with the task of reviewing the cases of approximately 9,000 World War 2 veterans awaiting hospitalization who have psychosis classified as non-service-connected. Those found eligible will be reclassified as service-connected, which gives them a priority for hospitalization and makes them eligible for outpatient treatment.

Under the new law, World War 2 veterans and those with service in the armed forces since June 27, 1950, who have developed an active psychosis within two years after separation from service, may file applications for hospitalization or outpatient treatment as service-connected cases. Those now on waiting lists for hospitalization need not file new applications as their cases will be automatically reviewed.

Further information on this law can be obtained by contacting the VA office at 286 Fair street or calling Kingston 5180.

Won't Ask Money Churchill Says

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill says he is not going to ask for money when he confers with President Truman here next month.

Informed sources said yesterday Churchill has no specific subjects in mind for discussion, but State Department officials believe he may bring up:

- 1. Possibility of a meeting with Stalin.
- 2. Use of atomic weapons in any major war.
- 3. The whole strategy of the Russian problem.
- 4. British-American partnership in world affairs. This could develop into talks about money.

However, Churchill has sent word he is not going to ask for financial assistance for his hard-pressed country.

it's magic

Beautiful furs have a magic effect upon the wearer. They bespeak a confident serenity and impart an inner glow that radiates toward all who behold this beauty. Only one fear darkens this security—the fear that such valuable garments may be lost, stolen or damaged beyond repair.

To remove this worry, there's another kind of magic, the magic called insurance, which for a very small sum protects your pocketbook against a severe shock in the event a thief, a fire or a vandal robs you of your wonderful fur.

Let us tell you about the Fur Floater policy which, at a small cost, protects you against financial loss if your fur coat, neckpiece, scarf, muff, hat or fur-trimmed cloth coat is lost or stolen or destroyed.

The cost is low. The protection follows you wherever you go.
